If Chemotherapy has a documented failure rate of 97.8% why would a doctor prescribe it? Is it your doctor who is in control of your health? It would seem so, until they pick up their prescription pad, and that's where their authority walks right out of the room.

There is no justice, there is only money, stated Nell Graham spokesperson for "The Association for Free Speech in Medicine". Doctors are limited to an arsenal of drugs provided for them by the drug companies, and that's about it. So if the pharmaceutical companies did not deem that a particular disease was profitable enough to develop a drug for, than simply stated, there will be no drug for it, but in a sinister way, the entire public has asked at one time or another, so what if an ongoing disease is so extremely profitable by just leaving it left alone, what then? So who is in control of your health?

Millions of Americans have lost faith in the American healthcare system, one doctor who asked to remain anonymous, stated that with the new healthcare laws, some screening tests for cancer are not being paid for and the insurance reimbursements for simple things like vaccinations don't even cover the costs of the vaccine, let alone the office, visit, nurse, the needle, or the injection, we actually had to stop offering to administer vaccinations anymore.

A new trend has taken hold and has taken America by storm, and is growing in popularity with each passing day, the return to what works. Prior to modern medicine, regulations, and drug companies, people were treated for many conditions successfully. Over the year's Native American herbal cures, Oriental medicines, Homeopathic and Naturopathic solutions in health had been cast to the wayside, but now are being revived in a big way.

One such facility seeing this changing trend is The National Treatment Center's for Environmental Disease. Spokeswomen, Irene Hill, stated that this has been a continuing and growing trend in medicine across the country. Hill stated the number of patients asking for alternative treatment has skyrocketed. It's amazing how many people are attracted to our center because we do offer Oriental Medicine, Homeopathic and Naturopathic remedies along with standard MD's and prescription medicine. The National Treatment Center's for Environmental Disease, is the largest treatment facility in the country treating patients for mold exposure, mycotoxin poisoning, endotoxin poisoning, Lyme's Disease, Chronic Fatigue Syndrome, Alzheimer's disease and Dementia. Hill went onto say; we pick up where modern medicine has failed, or has no more to offer a patient. Where most people think it's hopeless, and there is really nothing more that can be done, let's say for a Dementia, or Alzheimer's patient, there is a lot we can do to further the quality of life for the patient as well as the caregiver.

We also see a tremendous amount of mold exposure victims. These patients are mostly sick from the organic poisons produced by mold or fungus called Mycotoxins. There is no pharmaceutical medications manufactured for the treatment of "Mycotoxicosis", the condition caused from mold exposure. Hill, a mold exposure victim advocate, further stated, Mycotoxins are documented by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control (CDC) as some of the most toxic compounds known to man and have been used as a biological agent by the military. The reason being is that these toxins are not easily detected and are very difficult to get out of the human body, as well as being disabling to its victims'. Because the toxicology of these Mycotoxins are not well understood, or easily recognized by the medical community at large, this group of people usually wind up being misdiagnosed, prescribed the wrong medications and suffer for years, with a misdiagnoses of Lupus, MS, Fibromyalgia, Rheumatoid Arthritis, Asthma, Leaky Gut Syndrome, or Chronic Fatigue. Many of our patients are stunned that for most of these syndromes we look to natural solutions that get unprecedented results. The biggest question we get is; "Why don't more doctors know about these things"?
